COMMUNITY COLLABORATION CONNECTION

The Cambridge women-inspired initiative is about creating an inclusive industry for women.

Our community inspires and empowers members to seize opportunities to thrive.

Cambridge Community of Women

The Cambridge Community of Women was formally launched in 2011. Over time, the group has evolved to more than 100 financial professionals who regularly participate in calls, educational events, and networking opportunities. Cambridge hosts an annual luncheon at Ignite, our national conference, featuring topics pertinent to creating an inclusive industry and serving a diverse array of clients.

Cambridge Community of Women Forum

Cambridge Chief Executive Officer, Amy Webber, is passionate about diversifying the financial landscape and attracting new talent to our industry. She, along with other women in senior leadership, created the Cambridge Community of Women Forum in 2011 as a vehicle for financial professionals to share ideas, connect, and learn. The Cambridge Community of Women Forum is now hosted by leaders from the Cambridge home office and brings together this collaborative community for a day and a half of networking with each other, sharing best practices, and inspiring one another with new ideas to take back to their practices – and to their lives.

Financial Advisor Invest in Women

InvestmentNews Women to Watch

Women in Insurance and Financial Services (WIFS)

Cambridge Women

The Cambridge Community of Women is an inclusive group of professionals with a focus on encouraging greater gender diversity within the advice industry. Based on our demographics we are doing better in this area than most across the industry. Cambridge Chief Executive Officer, Amy Webber, is a well-respected leader in the financial services industry, and one of the few female CEOs.
